Editorial by Danièle Marcovici, Founder and President

Dear Friends,

In 2006, when I founded the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation to support local organizations advocating for women's rights, my objective was clear: to align my convictions with concrete actions.

At the time, no foundation in France was dedicated exclusively to this cause. It was time to lead the way, and I am proud that the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation played a pioneering role in awakening feminist philanthropy in our country.

For 19 years, the Foundation has worked with unwavering determination to promote the rights of women and girls worldwide. In nearly two decades, we have supported over 950 projects in 70 countries, investing nearly 20 million euros in associations.

The year 2024 marked a turning point. We intensified our efforts, reaching an unprecedented level of funding with 146 projects supported in 53 countries, amounting to over 2 million euros. Behind these numbers are thousands of lives transformed, innovative local initiatives, and concrete progress toward equality.

However, the challenges remain immense. Climate change, armed conflicts, and the rollback of fundamental rights continue to weaken women, who are often the first victims of these crises. These deeply intercon-ted threats remind us how crucial it is to include women in decision-making processes—whether economic, political, or environmental.

Moreover, defending women's rights means defending democracy. Wherever the rule of law falters, women's rights are among the first to be attacked.

The results we have achieved are the fruit of collective effort. They reflect the strength of a shared vision: a world where women live free from violence, have access to education, contribute to economic development, and play a role in shaping sustainable solutions for the future.

I would like to extend my sincere gratitude to the employees of the RAJA Group, our partner organizations, and all those who, in their own way, contribute to this great movement. Together, we prove that every action counts and that uniting our efforts can truly make a difference.

Let's continue to amplify women's voices and uphold our values with pride and commitment.

Danièle Marcovici

Defending Rights and Combating Violence Against Women

With the rise in violence against women and girls and the erosion of their rights in many countries, it is imperative to intensify efforts to eradicate physical, sexual, and psychological violence, which affects nearly one in three women worldwide (UN Women). Defending these rights and fighting against such violence is a collective responsibility, as the obstruction of women's full empowerment has devastating consequences for communities and societies as a whole.

The RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation continues its commitment by supporting initiatives aimed at raising awareness, educating, and mobilizing the public, with the goal of fostering an environment conducive to gender equality and ending violence against women and girls. Promoting gender equality is essential in all aspects of society—in the workplace, in education, in politics, and within households. This effort must be accompanied by strong legislative measures, inclusive public policies, and deep cultural transformation to effectively challenge the social norms that perpetuate inequality.

Raising Public Awareness

The Foundation's approach includes public awareness initiatives to combat violence against women and girls.

The RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation has supported the campaign led by the Fédération Nationale Solidarité Femmes (FNSF) against cyberviolence—a form of violence that remains largely unknown and overlooked by public opinion and policymakers. Launched on March 8, 2024, in honor of International Women's Rights Day, this campaign highlights issues such as control, sexual violence, and online harassment through a series of impactful short films and posters. An Instagram account was also created to amplify the campaign's reach.

Additionally, Sophie Pouget, the Foundation's Executive Director, spoke on Euronews to emphasize the impact of the European elections on rights and freedoms. She reminded audiences that progress in gender equality is not only stagnating but that hard-won rights and protections remain precarious and fragile. She stressed the importance of electing political representatives committed to addressing these issues with determination.

Sophie Pouget speaking at the debate "Political News and Feminist Issues: What Are the Consequences for Women?", moderated by Clémence Pajot, Executive Director of FNCIDFF.

Defending the Right to Abortion

Recognizing that access to abortion is a fundamental right essential for gender equality, the Foundation actively supports numerous initiatives and projects dedicated to its protection.

My Voice My Choice is a movement advocating for a Europe based on equality, justice, and respect for fundamental rights, particularly sexual and reproductive rights. Bringing together activists from across Europe, the initiative calls for legislative change at the EU level to guarantee safe abortion access for all. It leverages the European Citizens' Initiative, a direct democratic participation mechanism, to push for policy reforms.

In France, despite the constitutional protection of abortion rights in 2024, challenges remain, including a shortage of medical providers, geographical disparities, and pressure from anti-choice movements. Over the past ten years, more than 130 abortion clinics have closed, making access increasingly difficult. In response, the Foundation supported Le Planning Familial, which conducted a national survey on abortion access and reinforced its advocacy and awareness campaigns.

The Foundation is also a partner of the European Parliamentary Forum for Sexual & Reproductive Rights (EPF), a Belgian association founded in 2000 that brings together parliamentarians across Europe committed to protecting sexual and reproductive health rights, particularly for vulnerable populations worldwide. Specifically, the Foundation co-financed the 2025 reissue of the report The Tip of the Iceberg, which investigates anti-gender movement funding sources in the European Union between 2018 and 2022.

Supporting Network Collaboration

The Foundation encourages collaboration among various organizations to strengthen the impact of efforts to advance women's rights and combat gender-based violence.

The Foundation supported FNCIDFF (Fédération Nationale des Centres d'Information sur les Droits des Femmes et des Familles) in organizing its annual conference on September 10-11, which brought together more than 600 participants to discuss women's rights and gender equality. The event focused on sexual and gender-based violence and how to support survivors.

This year, in collaboration with the CHANEL Foundation, the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation was proud to support the association Choisir la cause des femmes, founded in 1971 by feminist activists Gisèle Halimi and Simone de Beauvoir. In response to the rise of far-right movements and the rollback of women's rights in Europe, the association promotes a new European legislative framework through the Clause de l'Européenne la plus favorisée (Clause of the Most Favored European Woman). This initiative aims to establish a common legal benchmark for women's rights by identifying the most progressive legislation in EU member states and advocating for their widespread adoption.

The Foundation's funding has also strengthened the association's advocacy efforts, allowing it to organize debates at the European level to raise awareness among policymakers and the public. It has also facilitated collaboration between feminist movements and women's rights organizations across Europe.

From October 4-6, with the support of the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation, the Women Without Violence International Foundation (WVWVIF) and Fondazione Pangea Onlus organized a conference in Matera, Italy, to denounce and combat sexual violence and femicide worldwide. The event resulted in a joint declaration, signed by NGOs, associations, and public figures, calling on governments and international organizations—especially the United Nations—to take action. This initiative reflects a collective commitment to a stronger, coordinated, and ambitious fight against sexual violence and femicide.

FRANCE COMBATING VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN IN RURAL AREAS THROUGH THE MOBILIZATION OF RURAL ADVOCATES Paroles de Femmes

In France, 31% of the population lives in rural areas, where 50% of femicides occur. This higher proportion is due to specific challenges faced by women in these regions: limited access to information, mobility constraints, isolation, and a shortage of healthcare professionals, among others

To address and highlight this issue, a consortium of three associations, led by Paroles de Femmes, was formed. Its goal is to recruit and support rural advocates to disseminate essential information and assist women victims of violence in the most isolated areas.

This consortium includes Paroles de Femmes in Tarn, Du Côté Des Femmes in Haute-Garonne, and Du Côté Des Femmes in Pyrénées-Atlantiques.

KEY FIGURES

- 200 people trained as rural advocates and educated on gender-based violence since the project's launch in 2016 in Tarn.
- 1,512 women in rural areas received support in 2023 thanks to the efforts of these three associations in their respective departments.

HUNGARY ENSURING ACCESS TO SEXUAL AND REPRODUCTIVE HEALTHCARE FOR ROMA WOMEN EMMA Egyesület

Hungary is home to one of the largest Roma populations in the EU, with approximately 700,000 people. Roma women from disadvantaged backgrounds are particularly vulnerable to obstetric violence and cumulative violations of their reproductive rights, especially in rural areas where they often lack accessible support and information.

The association launched the Community Doula Service, a program involving doulas from the Roma community. These caregivers, who understand the specific needs of mothers, provide emotional, physical, and informational support while fighting discrimination, fostering community solidarity, and empowering women.

KEY FIGURES

- 66 disadvantaged Roma women received doula support for childbirth, contraception, and abortion care.
- 696 donations distributed, including contraceptive devices, pregnancy tests, and sanitary pads.

Strengthening Education and Equal Opportunities

Education is a critical lever for the empowerment of women and the fight against gender-based and sexual violence. School remains the privileged space for nurturing free, independent, and autonomous individuals. However, access to education for girls remains a major challenge: 127 million girls are still out of school, one in six, due to poverty, gender-based violence, forced marriages, and stereotypes.

Despite its key role in promoting equality and development, political and financial investment in this area remains insufficient. The RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation supports initiatives that promote girls' education and foster their leadership. These projects align with the Sustainable Development Goals and work toward a future where women fully participate in society and decision-making processes.

Raising awareness to deconstruct stereotypes from a young age is essential to building an egalitarian society. In France, the 2024 HCE report reveals that 42% of men believe it is harder for them to cry, illustrating the persistence of stereotypes. The RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation is committed to advocacy actions that educate, mobilize, and promote gender equality as the foundation of a more just future.

Pépité Sexiste : Zero Stereotypes Campaign

This year, the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation supported an initiative by the association Pépité Sexiste: a digital awareness campaign called "Education Against Gender Stereotypes". Targeted at young people, the campaign draws on the findings of the 2024 report from the High Council for Equality, which highlights the persistence of gender stereotypes among youth and aims to dismantle sexist prejudices. By using the codes of popular platforms like TikTok and Instagram, Pépité Sexiste initiated a collective dialogue, garnering over 2.5 million views.

The Education of Young Girls: A Fundamental Lever for Their Emancipation

In 2024, the Foundation reaffirmed its commitment by supporting three educational projects dedicated to young girls from disadvantaged families: SOS Village d'Enfants in Côte d'Ivoire, Un Enfant par la Main in India, and Toutes à l'école in Cambodia. These initiatives share a common goal: to offer quality education to young girls, enabling them to build a better future and break the cycle of poverty.

These projects go beyond providing education. They also raise awareness among young girls about their fundamental rights, empowering them to make informed decisions about their lives. By educating them, these programs actively combat practices like early marriage and child labor, which remain leading causes of school dropout.

A key aspect of these initiatives lies in mobilizing communities and families. Raising awareness among parents and relatives is essential to change mindsets and eliminate obstacles like early labor. By convincing families of the importance of education for their daughters, these projects create an environment where girls can stay in school longer, develop their full potential, and aspire to careers and financial independence.

Supporting the Leadership of Young Girls

The Foundation also supported the Obama Foundation in its Girls Opportunity Alliance (GOA) initiative, which aims to guarantee quality education for adolescent girls worldwide. Since 2018, GOA has supported more than 120 local projects in 18 countries, providing funding, training, and resources, while fostering a global network of engaged leaders. By combining local support, international collaboration, and citizen mobilization, GOA creates a lasting impact on reducing inequalities and empowering girls.

FRANCE FOR SUSTAINABLE INCLUSION OF REFUGEES AND ASYLUM SEEKERS IN FRANCE UniR, Universités & Réfugié.e.s

UniR revealed the obstacles faced by refugee women in accessing higher education in Île-de-France, including language barriers, administrative issues, gender discrimination, and lack of networks.

To improve their opportunities, UniR launched "Intercultur'elles", a mentoring program supporting refugee and asylum-seeking women in their French language learning, resuming studies, and entering the workforce. This program pairs local women with refugees to highlight their skills and overcome obstacles.

Certified "Generation Equality" by UN Women France and a member of the Mentoring Collective, Intercultur'elles helps many women regain confidence, access education, and integrate into the job market.

KEY FIGURES

- 780 women supported (including 45 mentorship pairs formed) through the Intercultur'elles program.
- 20 workshops and 2 cultural outings conducted during the year to develop the skills, confidence, and well-being of refugee and asylum-seeking women.

MADAGASCAR PROMOTING GENDER EQUALITY IN THE DIGITAL SECTOR Passerelles Numériques

In Madagascar, where more than two-thirds of the population is under 25 and 81% lack formal employment, Passerelles Numériques works to enhance the employability of youth through the digital sector. The project aims to raise awareness among 1,000 young people, focusing on the inclusion of women in digital fields, where they are underrepresented. The project will support three cohorts of 50 vulnerable graduates, providing them with IT, digital training, and behavioral skills development. These young people are accompanied both personally and financially until their professional integration.

KEY FIGURES

- 825 young people, 79% of whom are girls, were raised awareness about opportunities for further education and professional digital training.
- 28 Malagasy female graduates joined the support program and will be assisted in their higher education until they enter the workforce.

Supporting Women's Professional Integration and Economic Rights

At the heart of family, cultural, health, and social balances, women occupy a central position. Over the past 25 years, numerous studies have highlighted the positive impact of women's empowerment on social and economic development. However, on a global scale, women are more likely than men to occupy precarious, low-paid jobs, and to have limited or even nonexistent fundamental rights.

In 2024, the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation continued its commitment to supporting the professional integration of women, viewing access to employment as a crucial key to their economic autonomy and emancipation.

Through support for various projects (training, entrepreneurial assistance, and integration into the job market), the Foundation has enabled hundreds of women to overcome socio-economic obstacles, enhance their skills, and build a sustainable professional future.

The RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation Supports the Mujeres Constructoras Project for the Second Consecutive Year, Led by the Emanik Association

In the Nuevo Amanecer del Paraíso neighborhood, Huarochirí, Peru, the population is primarily indigenous, and the economy is largely based on agriculture. Emanik, in collaboration with its local partner El Vaso de Leche, is running an innovative and deeply transformative professional integration project that actively addresses inequalities and stereotypes. This project, Mujeres Constructoras (Women Builders of Their Destiny), has enabled around thirty women, including some with disabilities, to train in the construction trades, a sector traditionally reserved for men. More than just a training program, this initiative has been a true advocacy effort for gender equality, demonstrating that women, even in contexts of extreme poverty, can excel in technical fields and play a key role in transforming their communities.

By combining technical workshops, psycho-social support, and the creation of a community center, this project not only facilitated the professional integration of these women but also amplified their voices and visibility as agents of social change.

ADVOCACY ACTIONS

Supporting the Professional Integration of Women in Priority Neighbourhoods

The Les Ateliers du Féminisme Populaire association supports women in priority neighbourhoods in their economic emancipation by addressing the violence and power dynamics that hinder their autonomy. In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, the association developed a digital platform called POP!, offering accessible online training and a volunteer mentoring program with several partner companies. In 2024, the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation is supporting the third phase of this initiative with the launch of RCC - Raconter-Compter-Connecter (Tell-Count-Connect). These physical meetings will bring together between 900 and 1,000 women from priority neighborhoods and more than fifty companies, fostering networking. This project positions professional integration as a crucial tool to challenge gender stereotypes that perpetuate inequalities and hinder women's access to sustainable economic opportunities.

FRANCE SUPPORT FOR THE PROFESSIONAL INTEGRATION OF WOMEN VICTIMS OF VIOLENCE Solidarité Femmes 13

In Marseille, where poverty and unemployment rates are high, Solidarité Femmes 13 launched a professional integration project in 2024 for women victims of violence. The project collaborates with various entrepreneurial entities, including businesses, training centers, and social reintegration programs.

It aims to break the cycle of violence and help women regain their economic independence.

KEY FIGURES

- 48 women victims of domestic and sexual violence, including some from difficult and violent migration paths, supported.
- Nearly 30 partners, including businesses, reintegration centers, and training organizations.

INDIA WOMEN EMPOWERMENT Frères des Hommes

In India, where informal sector workers, particularly women, face significant marginalization, the Women Empowerment project, led by Frères des Hommes and FEDINA, has strengthened the ability of 1,300 women in sectors such as domestic work, sanitation, construction, and waste collection to exercise their rights. The project offers training, awareness programs, and grassroots support, also organizing these women into solidarity groups to help them access social security.

KEY FIGURES

- 1,300 women from vulnerable castes and sectors, suffering from various forms of violence, supported.
- Three annual inter-sector meetings to facilitate knowledge exchange and promote best practices among vulnerable workers.

Promoting Women's Actions for the Environment

The summer of 2024, the hottest on record, has further intensified the severity of the climate crisis and its unequal impacts. Women, already facing persistent inequalities, suffer disproportionately from the effects of climate change. The paradox is clear: although they are among the first victims, their voices remain largely absent from decision-making processes, and economic and social inequalities worsen under the pressure of these ecological crises, creating a vicious cycle that deepens their vulnerability.

For the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation, it is essential to link the fight for gender equality with the fight for environmental justice. We firmly believe that sustainable solutions for the environment cannot exist without ensuring full equality and inclusion of women in decision-making processes. That is why, once again this year, we are supporting projects around the world led by women that focus on their empowerment and the rightful recognition of women as essential agents of change.

ADVOCACY ACTIONS

Throughout 2024, the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation has been actively involved in addressing the issues related to women and the environment through a series of advocacy initiatives.

Feminist Perspective on Agroecology

In 2024, the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation continued its commitment to women and the environment by engaging in several advocacy projects.

Building on its Women and Environment program, the publication of the 2015-2023 Retrospective, Feminist Perspectives on Agroecology, completed a more than two-year partnership between the Foundation and independent political ecology researcher Carine Pionetti. This exploratory study analyzes the connections between agroecology projects and feminist struggles, drawing on several initiatives in India, France, Colombia, and Senegal supported by the Foundation. It highlights the crucial role of rural women in preserving biodiversity, food sovereignty, and social justice, while emphasizing the challenges they face, particularly access to resources and recognition of their work. The study offers concrete recommendations for donors and field actors to promote a feminist agroecology that fully integrates gender and emancipation dimensions. This strategic document underscores the Foundation's ongoing commitment to advocating for the intersection of gender equality and ecological transition.

Gender and Climate Observatory, in partnership with IRIS

In 2024, the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation also supported the creation of the Gender, Climate, and Environment Observatory, in partnership with IRIS, the CHANEL Foundation, and the L'Oréal Foundation. This groundbreaking project, conducted over ten months, aims to enhance the visibility of the links between gender inequality and climate change in France, a topic still underexplored in academic and institutional circles.

The observatory focuses on three main themes: integrating gender equality into international climate negotiations, the role and activism of women in the face of climate challenges, and applying the concept of "common but differentiated responsibility" to gender. Through multidisciplinary analyses and the production of policy briefs, the observatory seeks to make concrete political recommendations and mobilize a broad range of actors, including researchers, elected officials, NGOs, and foundations, to promote inclusive and sustainable actions.

Sophie Pouget's Participation in CSW68

On March 11 and 12, 2024, the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation participated in the 68th Annual Commission on the Status of Women (CSW68) in New York. This is the largest annual United Nations gathering focused on gender equality and the empowerment of women. Sophie Pouget, the General Delegate of the Foundation, had the opportunity to present the Feminist Climate Fund initiative, emphasizing the importance of including the philanthropic sector in discussions. This sector has the ability to implement targeted actions at the local level. One of the highlights of the event for the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation was the meeting with several "youth leaders", including Brazilian, Ugandan, and Colombian women activists, who applied for the 2024 edition of the Feminist Climate Fund.

Lastly, a discussion with the World Bank led to the ambition of possibly co-writing an article on women's access to jobs in the ecological transition sector («green jobs»).

Sophie Pouget, General Delegate of the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation, surrounded by women specialists participating in CSW68: Natalia Tsuyama, Farzana Faruk, Joanita Babirye, Rosalind Helfand, Ana Rosa Cyrus, and Alejandra Quiquantar.

WOMEN & ENVIRONMENT PROGRAM: A PAN-EUROPEAN SOLIDARITY PRODUCT OPERATION

Following the COP21 in 2015, the Foundation launched the Women & Environment program to fund actions supporting the preservation of natural resources, ecosystems, and biodiversity, while empowering women who play significant - and sometimes pioneering - roles in these initiatives.

The semi-annual product-sharing program is led by RAJA France and fifteen European companies of the RAJA Group: Belgium, the Netherlands, Austria, the UK, Italy, Spain, Poland, Switzerland, and others. For each purchase made by a customer from a selection of eco-friendly products in RAJA's catalog, RAJA France or one of the participating companies donates €1 to the Foundation.

The funds raised are allocated to associative projects selected by the Foundation's executive committee. These projects, led by women for sustainable environmental transitions, not only improve living conditions but also fight against climate change.

The product-sharing program, which is renewed every six months, engages the suppliers and customers of the RAJA Group companies. They can make solidarity purchases and learn about the projects supported by the Foundation through this initiative in the general catalog and on the RAJA Group website.

From 2015 to 2024, more than 120 projects have been supported in 31 countries, benefiting tens of thousands of women. Nearly 70% of the projects supported through this program address the intersection of women and agroecology, focusing on initiatives for more ecological modes of production, largely or entirely led by women.

A NURSERY OF WOMEN BOARD MEMBERS TO SUPPORT THE POLITICAL EMPOWERMENT OF ORGANIC WOMEN FARMERS

Fédération Nationale d'Agriculture Biologique (FNAB)

In France, despite their growing presence in agriculture, female producers struggle to make their voices heard. Underrepresentation in governance, gendered labor divisions, and limited access to training hinder their professional advancement. FNAB is actively working to strengthen their role by providing tailored support for women farmers seeking to advocate for organic farming.

Since 2018, FNAB has trained gender equality ambassadors, who have become key awareness-raising figures, and has encouraged better representation of women in governance. It also promoted gender diversity in its governing bodies by fostering leadership among female farmers. Its efforts now extend to agricultural education, institutions, and the general public to promote gender equality in agriculture.

KEY FIGURES

- 30 female producers trained within the leadership incubator.
- 73% of the women involved in the program have taken on greater leadership roles (becoming presidents, treasurers of their local organic farming groups, or assuming regional responsibilities).

BENIN
SUPPORTING WOMEN IN THE CASSAVA PROCESSING INDUSTRY FOR A DUAL ECONOMIC AND ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT

GERES

In Benin, the traditional process of transforming cassava into gari still relies on polluting cooking technologies, leading to health issues for female processors and putting immense pressure on firewood resources. To address these challenges, GERES is implementing a program to improve working conditions by distributing 400 improved cooking stoves (FCA) across four municipalities, benefiting 108 women's cooperatives.

The program provides women with training to optimize the economic and social impact of these new stoves. In 2024, six metalworkers were trained to produce protective metal cages, while the recycling of barrels helps lower production costs. In the long run, the project aims to secure carbon financing to ensure its sustainability.

KEY FIGURES

- 108 women's cooperatives have gained access to improved cooking solutions.
- 27 cooperatives have received targeted support to maximize the economic and social benefits of these energy-efficient solutions, fostering greater autonomy for women.

FEMINIST FUNDS

Women's rights organizations face chronic underfunding, which significantly limits their ability to fulfill their essential missions. This issue is particularly severe for small grassroots organizations, which often lack the necessary resources to secure funding.

A study conducted by the Association for Women's Rights in Development (AWID), titled Where is the Money for Feminist Organizing?, analyzed the budgets of 3,739 feminist and women's rights organizations in the Global South between 2015 and 2019. The findings are striking:

- Nearly half (48%) of these organizations had a median annual budget of just $30,000 or less.
- Only 6% had budgets exceeding $300,000, and a mere 2% surpassed $1 million.

FEMINIST FUND FOR PRIORITY NEIGHBORHOODS

Launched in 2024, the Feminist Fund for Priority Neighborhoods aims to amplify the voices of local organizations working to develop their communities across France. As drivers of change, these organizations play a crucial role in fostering social cohesion, strengthening community ties, and empowering women in underserved neighborhoods.

A committee of experts oversees the project selection process: Bouchera Azzouz (filmmaker, founder of Ateliers du Féminisme Populaire), Fawzia Baba-Aissa (co-founder and development lead of the Fund for Women in the Mediterranean), Frédéric Callens (advisor to the director of the National Museum of Immigration History), Céline Evita (consultant and expert in urban policy, nonprofit sector, and civic engagement), Fadila Mehal (founder and president of Marianne de la Diversité), Athina Zaag Marmorat (CEO and founder of the nonprofit Rêv'Elles), Caroline Sakina Brac de la Perrière (historian and co-founder of the Fund for Women in the Mediterranean)

LPaSGPS works on parent-child relationships through various cultural and sports activities. The association also leads support groups and relaxation workshops. The majority of the beneficiaries are mothers from priority neighborhoods and single-parent families.

Maryeme BOUSLAM
Courdimanche (Val-d'Oise)

Tous Ensemble works to strengthen synergy among local, public, and community actors to improve individuals' trust in democracy and institutions. The association focuses on combating school bullying and advocates for better representation of women in public spaces.

Linda BARA and Kelly PERONE
Sarcelles (Val-d'Oise)

Healthy Smoothies raises awareness about healthy and sustainable eating through educational workshops, emphasizing the understanding of the importance of nutritional intake and short supply chains.

In France, the situation is just as concerning. Women's rights organizations suffer from severe underfunding, exacerbated by insufficient public spending and a lack of private-sector support. According to the Philanthropy Observatory of the Fondation de France, only 7% of foundations support initiatives dedicated to women and girls.

To address these challenges, the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation has launched two feminist funds:

- The Feminist Fund for Climate
- The Feminist Fund for Priority Neighborhoods

These funds specifically support women-led organizations with annual budgets not exceeding €20,000. They provide unrestricted grants of up to €5,000, ensuring that grassroots organizations can increase their impact and sustainability without restrictive funding conditions.

FEMINIST FUND FOR CLIMATE

Through the Feminist Fund for Climate, the Foundation provides financial support for projects that promote the role and actions of women in environmental protection and the fight against climate change: promoting sustainable agricultural practices, access to sustainable energy, natural resource management, waste management, and the promotion of "green" entrepreneurship. The Foundation pays special attention to women who bring innovations and adaptation strategies to preserve natural resources and biodiversity.

EMERGENCY FUND

In 2021, to mark the 15th anniversary of the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation, Danièle Marcovici established the Emergency Fund, designed to support organizations working for women's rights and addressing urgent and immediate needs.

In 2024, this fund provided support to six organizations across six countries, focusing on ending conflicts, promoting gender equality, combating violence, and ensuring access to education for young girls.

ADVOCACY ACTIONS

In The Gambia, female genital mutilation (FGM) affects 76% of women and girls aged 15 to 49, with three out of four girls experiencing it before the age of six. Though criminalized since 2015, a bill was introduced in April 2024 seeking to revoke this ban. The Foundation supported Women In Liberation and Leadership (WILL), a women-led organization of survivors fighting to end FGM. WILL conducted workshops for lawmakers and their staff, informing them about these violent practices and their lifelong consequences on victims. They also organized awareness campaigns in several villages, targeting young people aged 10 to 25. Fortunately, on July 15, 2024, the Gambian Parliament rejected the proposed bill, keeping the ban in place.

Following the October 7, 2023 terrorist attack, a violent war between Israel and Hamas erupted, leading to nearly 50,000 deaths in Gaza, Palestine, and Israel. The Foundation supported two organizations working together for peace: the Israeli association Women Wage Peace and the Palestinian association Women of the Sun. These two organizations co-authored «Mother's Call», a statement urging an end to the conflict and calling for the enforcement of UN Security Council Resolution 1325, which advocates for women's participation in peace processes. The Foundation's financial support helped launch a dedicated website to gather signatures in support of this initiative.

Awareness Campaign Against Female Genital Mutilation (FGM)

OPERATIONAL SUPPORT

Since the Taliban's return to power in Afghanistan, most young girls are barred from primary school, and secondary education is completely prohibited for them. For the third consecutive year, the Foundation has funded underground schooling for young girls through the associations Femaid and Nayestane, which jointly developed the project "Let Us Learn". Thanks to this initiative, over 3,000 young girls are receiving education, and more than 180 female teachers are employed.

The conflict between Hezbollah and the State of Israel has displaced over 1.4 million people. Among them, nearly 600 women have received support from Kafa, an organization fighting violence against women. Many of these women are domestic violence survivors or exploited migrant workers. The Foundation provided an emergency grant to fund the distribution of essential goods and to strengthen health, safety, and shelter services for these displaced women.

Poland is one of the European countries where sexual and reproductive rights are most under threat. The Foundation supports Feminoteka, a Polish organization recognized since 2005 as the country's leading specialized structure against sexual violence. Feminoteka established Poland's first dedicated center for the comprehensive care of rape survivors. The center offers psychological and therapeutic support, employment assistance, secure accommodation, legal aid, and education and awareness programs.

What are the key priorities of the Emergency Fund?

The RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation operates in countries and contexts where women's rights are under threat, whether socially, politically, or economically. It provides support to local grassroots organizations recognized for their impact and ability to mobilize communities.

For the past three years, the Foundation has focused exclusively on operational projects, responding to humanitarian, social, or political crises. This year, for the first time, it has also financed advocacy initiatives, aimed at amplifying the voices of the organizations it supports.

How are organizations selected?

Associations and NGOs can reach out to the Foundation if they are leading projects that align with its funding priorities.

Presentation of the Foundation

A FOUNDATION ROOTED IN THE RAJA GROUP

The RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation is firmly committed to promoting the empowerment of women and girls through a diverse range of projects, spanning from education to access to economic resources, with the goal of creating a lasting impact in favor of gender equality.

Beyond project funding, the Foundation actively engages in advocacy and awareness-raising initiatives and works closely with its partners to foster dialogue and collaboration among various stakeholders, including associations, governments, and the private sector.

Furthermore, the Foundation aims to involve and mobilize RAJA Group employees in its initiatives, notably through the RAJApeople program.

The RAJA Group is Europe's leading distributor of packaging, office supplies, and industrial equipment for businesses. Operating in 19 European countries, the Group's 26 companies serve nearly 2 million customers of all sizes and across all industries.

RAJA's success is a story of family and, above all, a story of women. It all began in 1954 when Rachel Marcovici, the mother of Danièle Marcovici, founded Cartons RAJA alongside her business partner at the time, Janine Rocher. The name «RAJA» was created from the first syllables of their first names. Rachel Marcovici had a clever idea to meet her customers' needs: selling reused cardboard boxes as a cost-effective alternative to new ones. Thanks to her entrepreneurial spirit and determination, the company quickly expanded its offering to include new cardboard boxes and a wide range of packaging solutions. The small business flourished and met with great success.

In 1962, at just 16 years old, Danièle Marcovici joined Cartons RAJA as a sales representative. By 1982, at the age of 36, she took over as CEO and decided to develop mail-order sales. This visionary move transformed the company's trajectory, making RAJA the leading packaging distributor in France. In the mid-1990s, she set her sights on international expansion and business diversification, implementing a strategy of both organic growth and acquisitions—an approach that continues today.

In 2006, driven by her longstanding commitment to women's rights and her belief in the social and societal role of businesses, Danièle Marcovici established the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation.

Today, 70 years after its founding, the RAJA Group remains a family-owned and independent company. It employs 5,000 people and achieved a turnover of €1.7 billion in 2024.

THE RAJAPEOPLE PROGRAM

Since 2013, employees of the RAJA Group have had the opportunity to engage alongside the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation through the RAJApeople program. Initially launched in France and later expanded to all countries where the RAJA Group operates, this initiative allows every employee to actively support the cause of women.

MICRODONATION AND THE RAJAPEOPLE AWARDS

The microDON program enables employees who wish to contribute between a few cents and €50 each month to the Foundation. All funds raised throughout the year are matched by RAJA.

Each year, the micro-donors select two recipient associations for the RAJApeople Awards, one in France and one internationally, to receive the collected donations.

In 2024, a total of €20,391 was raised.

The RAJApeople France Award was granted to Uni(e-s)verselles, an organization that supports women who have undergone female genital mutilation or experienced domestic violence. Through a multidisciplinary care pathway at the Maison des Femmes de Grenoble, the association provides essential services. Additionally, it conducts advocacy, awareness, and training initiatives in schools, businesses, and prisons to promote support for women in need.

The RAJApeople International Award was given to Terres en Mêlées, an organization dedicated to empowering girls and preventing gender-based violence through rugby in Madagascar. The association also provides tailored support, including a listening unit for victims of violence, sports sessions, and a dedicated rugby championship for young girls.

FOUNDATION AMBASSADORS

The Foundation is fortunate to rely on a network of 41 dedicated ambassadors who promote awareness and mobilization efforts across the RAJA Group. Their commitment ensures that the Foundation maintains a strong presence within each of the 26 subsidiaries operating across 19 countries. Their deep understanding of local contexts is a valuable asset in effectively supporting grassroots organizations.

SOLIDARITY AND AWARENESS EVENTS

MOBILIZATION FOR WOMEN'S RIGHTS

On the occasion of International Women's Rights Day, March 8th, the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation organized a week of awareness from March 5th to 14th, 2024. Various activities were held at the RAJA Group headquarters.

The association Pépite Sexiste presented a talk on "Sexism in Sport", highlighting the obstacles still present in athletic practices. At the same time, a workshop hosted by the association Fight For Dignity explored "Karate as a means of empowerment", illustrating how combat sports can play an essential role in empowering women. The week continued with the screening of the documentary PLUS QU'UN JEU, which challenges and raises awareness about gender equality in women's sports.

One of the highlights of this week was the masterclass led by Laurence Fischer, a three-time world karate champion and President of Fight For Dignity. During this session, Laurence shared the stages of her career, her successes, and the challenges she faced as a female athlete.

As every year, Danièle Marcovici marked her commitment to the fight for women's rights by gifting a symbolic present to the RAJA Group employees. This year, the gift took the form of a card game developed by the Croatian association Fierce Women. The game highlights the contributions of European women in fields such as culture, science, art, human rights, and politics.

EUROPEAN SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT WEEK

As part of the European Sustainable Development Week, held from September 18th to October 8th, the employees participated in the "Wash In 5" challenge launched by the association Kynarou, a partner of the Foundation since 2022. The challenge consisted of taking showers of less than 5 minutes. For every 100 showers taken, the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation financed the installation of a hand-powered washing machine in the villages of Salem, Theni, and Suttham in India. A total of 80 machines were funded!

PINK OCTOBER

On October 6, around a hundred employees participated in the Odyssea Paris race. This event helped raise one million euros, which were fully donated to the Gustave Roussy cancer center, the Prolific association, and the "ATIP3 and breast cancer" research project. Throughout the month of October, RAJA Group teams were invited to show their solidarity by wearing pink clothing or accessories and displaying a pink ribbon.

MOBILIZATION AGAINST VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN

From November 20 to 30, 2024, the 4,500 employees across the 26 companies of the RAJA Group took part in a pedometer initiative. Together, they walked towards a common goal: raising funds for associations working to combat violence against women and girls. Thanks to this initiative, more than 62 million steps were taken, raising over €50,000. This amount was donated to European organizations supporting women and girls who are victims of violence, across the 19 countries where the RAJA Group operates.

On Saturday, November 23, 2024, the annual feminist march organized in Paris by the #NousToutes collective took place. The Foundation team, along with RAJA France employees and members of the partner association Droits d'Urgence, joined the march to express their support for the victims and reaffirm their commitment to ending gender-based and sexual violence.

As a leading advocate for women's rights, the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation has long been committed to raising awareness around these issues. As an active member of numerous coalitions, it strives to promote and support the development of feminist philanthropy.

THE IMPORTANCE OF COALITIONS

Adopting an engaged approach relies on collective strategy and partnership work. Alliances and coalitions play a key role in driving deep societal transformations. This enhanced collaboration in-crases the potential to build a future where women's rights are fully recognized and valued

According to the report The Tip of the Iceberg, written by the European Parliamentary Forum on Sexual and Reproductive Rights (EPF), which studied the funding of 54 actors in the anti-gender movement between 2009 and 2018, more than 700 billion dollars were invested in Europe. More worryingly, annual expenditures quadrupled, rising from 22.2 million USD in 2009 to 96 million USD in 2018. These anti-gender actors have three main geographical sources: the European Union at 61.9%, the Russian Federation at 26.6%, and the United States at 11.5%.

In response to these organized and determined financial actors, the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation aims to contribute to the awakening of feminist philanthropy. In 2023, alongside the Fund for Women in the Mediterranean and the CHANEL Foundation, the Foundation launched the Coalition for Feminist Philanthropy (CPF). Today, the coalition brings together 13 organizations: the Fondation de France, the Foundation for Endometriosis Research, the Kering Foundation, Focus 2030, the Médecins du Monde Foundation, the BNP Paribas Foundation, the Women's Foundation, the Mirova Foundation, and the L'Oréal Fund for Women. The CPF has three key objectives:

- To promote gender equality and the rights of women and girls by raising the visibility of this issue within philanthropy.
- To mobilize more resources for gender equality between women and men and, more broadly, for gender equality,
- increasing impact by pooling expertise and undertaking joint initiatives.

The CPF has mandated Phare Agency to assess the role of gender equality in the funding strategies of French philanthropy. The study, due to be released in 2025, will explore how gender equality is approached and supported in philanthropy, measure the share of philanthropic budgets dedicated to gender equality, and understand the motivations and investment methods of feminist philanthropy actors. Funding sources can thus be better identified, characterized, and quantified.

What is the anti-gender movement?

The anti-gender movement can be defined as a collection of initiatives and discourses that oppose rights related to gender and sexuality. It is often characterized by criticism of gender studies, LGBTQIA+ rights, and gender equality policies. This movement, frequently supported by conservative or religious groups, promotes the idea that the concept of gender threatens traditional values, family roles, and cultural norms. It opposes rights such as same-sex marriage, inclusive sexual education, and anti-discrimination policies.

THE ALLIANCE FOR GENDER EQUALITY IN EUROPE

Since 2023, the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation has been a member of the Alliance for Gender Equality in Europe, a collective of European funders established in 2021 to support progress in gender equality and women's rights in Europe. The Alliance is hosted by the European Foundation Network and aims to provide financial support and strengthen the capacity of organizations working across Europe. It also seeks to mobilize the European philanthropic community to increase resources allocated to gender equality in Europe and promote collaboration among funders.

The Alliance includes the Bodossaki Foundation, the CHANEL Foundation, JP Morgan, the King Baudouin Foundation, the L'Oréal Foundation for Women, the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation, and the Foundation of France. Its mission is to address the urgent funding gap and promote gender equality within the EU and the UK by supporting local organizations through grants, capacity-building, and awareness-raising initiatives.

Over the past three years, the Alliance has supported 38 organizations with over 4 million euros in project and operational funding, contributing to building a more just, inclusive, and equitable Europe.

The Alliance met in December in Athens to review the past three years and discuss the strategy for 2025-2027. In three years, it has doubled its membership, increased its budget fivefold, and promoted inclusive philanthropic practices, enabling grassroots organizations to access funding. Its clear and accessible processes have been praised, as well as its capacity-building and collaboration initiatives. These lessons will guide its strategy for 2025-2027, with a focus on increased support for gender equality in Europe.

SELECTION AND MONITORING OF PROJECTS SUPPORTED IN THE FRAMEWORK OF THE CALL FOR PROJECTS

The Foundation supports local, national, or international projects implemented by French or foreign associations, meeting specific selection criteria.

Project Submission

Project leaders submit their grant applications on the Foundation's website during calls for projects.

Review and Pre-selection

The applications are reviewed by the team according to the Foundation's criteria. The Foundation pre-selects the project leaders, meets with them, and then chooses the projects to present to the executive committee.

Selection

The executive committee reviews the applications pre-selected by the team. It evaluates their alignment with the Foundation's objectives, particularly their sustainable impact on women's lives. After deliberation, the committee members vote to designate the projects to support and the amounts of grants to be allocated.

Monitoring and Evaluation

A partnership is established with the project leaders, who commit to providing regular activity reports and financial statements. The Foundation's team closely monitors the progress of the funded actions and evaluates their results.

The RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation operates within the RAJA Group under the auspices of the Fondation de France. Its total budget, exceeding 20 million euros over 18 years, comes from various funding sources: the RAJA Group, microdonations from the Group's employees, and the personal financial support of its President, Danièle Marcovici.

142 PROJECTS SUPPORTED IN 2024

In 2024, the Foundation directly or indirectly funded 142 projects, 29 of which were selected through the call for projects. Five projects received support from the Emergency Fund, and 18 from the Feminist Funds (12 for the Feminist Fund for Climate, 6 for the Feminist Fund for Neighborhoods). Twelve projects were funded through the Women & Environment product-sharing program. Additionally, the Foundation renewed its financial support for 20 projects and committed to 15 new multi-year funding engagements.

SUPPORT AWARDED THROUGH AWARENESS AND ADVOCACY ACTIONS

The Foundation leads several strategic partnerships for advocacy actions. This includes 17 projects aimed at raising awareness on gender equality and women's rights. These actions take various forms: events, documentaries, awareness campaigns, etc.

In April 2023, the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation joined the Alliance for Gender Equality in Europe. This collective of funders, established in 2021, aims to support progress in gender equality and women's rights in Europe. As part of this coalition, the Foundation donated €50,000.

SUPPORT AWARDED UNDER THE «WOMEN & ENVIRONMENT» PROGRAM

In 2024, the Foundation and the RAJA Group donated over €450,000 under the "Women & Environment" program. RAJA France and 15 other companies from the Group in Europe participated in this initiative. This fund supports associations that promote and strengthen the role of women in environmental protection. Additionally, the product-sharing operations "Perspectives for Women", created by RAJA Germany, were renewed in 2024.

These two campaigns helped collect and distribute over €60,000 to three associations: Horizont e.V. in Munich, VbFF e.V. in Frankfurt, and Papatya in Berlin.

In 2024, the total grant budget amounts to over €2 million

SUPPORT AWARDED UNDER THE RAJAPEOPLE PROGRAM

The micro-donors from RAJA France and Cenpac, joined since 2022 by those from Logisorgues, Wel-come Office, and JPG, raised and allocated over €20,000 to two associations through the RAJApeople program: the association Uni(e-s)verselles (RAJApeople France Award) and Terres en Mêlées (RAJApeople International Award - Madagascar).

On November 25, 2024, the employees of the RAJA Group mobilized to raise funds through a Podometer operation organized by the Foundation. Over €50,000 was raised and donated to 31 local associations working to combat violence against women in each of the 19 countries where the RAJA Group operates in Europe.

THE RAJA-DANIÈLE MARCOVICI FOUNDATION IS A MEMBER OF:

With over 50 years of experience, the Fondation de France is the leading philanthropy network in France. It brings together founders, donors, volunteer experts, employees, and thousands of associations, all united by the desire to take action. The RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation was created under the aegis of the Fondation de France.

Founded in 2002, the French Centre for Funds and Foundations (CFF) brings together more than 300 members. Despite their diversity in action, status, and operational methods, these funds and foundations share common values and missions around which they seek to unite. The CFF's mission is to increase understanding of the philanthropic sector, foster its development, and represent its common interests for the benefit of the public good.

The Alliance is the only pooled fund focusing on gender equality in Europe. The initiative emerged from broad consultations with the women's sector, including women's funds, civil society organizations, and corporate and private donors. It engages a diversity of funders, whether they have experience giving to gender equality or not and facilitates collaboration, mutual learning and increased impact.

Launched in November 2020 at the initiative of the French Centre for Funds and Foundations, the French Coalition of Foundations for the Climate (CfC) brings together and mobilizes philanthropic actors around climate-related issues. The goal is to create a national philanthropic movement focused on climate change by supporting foundations and funds in their awareness of these challenges and in the implementation of effective strategies. It already includes 67 organizations, including the RAJA-Danièle Marcovici Foundation, which is a signatory of the manifesto.

Philea is an association of philanthropists, European organizations, and national structures that brings together over 7,500 public utility foundations from 30 countries. Philea nurtures a diverse and inclusive ecosystem of foundations, philanthropic organizations, and networks working for the common good. The association helps its members get inspired, act together, and achieve greater impact by sharing data and knowledge, exchanging good practices, connecting around common themes, and engaging in policy work.
